WHAT'S NEW

WOVEN WONDERS

Catering to the trade, the Norwalk studio of Lance Woven Leather specializes in custom leather applications for floors, walls, furniture and pillows. The bench is topped in a harlequin pattern of handwoven calfskin framed in natural walnut. Price upon request, lancewovens.com.

PATCHWORK

The geometric patterns of Frances Palmer's tiles are inspired by the art of Sol LeWitt and Agnes Martin. Each white earthenware piece is hand cut, then imprinted using a variety of tools, rendering each tile unique. Price upon request, francespalmerpottery.com.

MAP QUEST

Restoring the art of cartography, Pangea maps chart the ocean floor and the beauty below the water's surface. The handcrafted, 3-D contours are constructed from layers of Baltic birch plywood. Shown here, a custom design of the New Haven seaboard. $390, pangeamaps.com.

NAUTICALLY INSPIRED

Simon Pearce glassblowers use centuries-old techniques to create the globe-and-stem silhouette of the Hartland hurricane, inspired by buoys floating in the water near Pearce's home. Starting at $145, simonpearce.com.

LUXE LEATHER

Washington, CT-based Grey New York Grey New England will premiere its collection of luxury leather goods at Privet House in New Preston. The New England tote is hand-finished by Italian artisans. $490, privethouse.com, greynewyorkgreynewengland.com.

INTO THE WOODS

Employing traditional joinery techniques, using locally sourced and certified hardwoods, Dylan Bartlett planes and scrapes each furniture piece by hand in his Weston studio. His design inspiration stems from ancient Japanese construction, Danish modern designs and Moroccan architecture. $5,000, available at Axel Interiors, axelinteriors.com, woodbydylan.com.

TACTILE TEXTILES

Rosemary Hallgarten's line of rugs, fabrics and home accessories is all about texture. From alpaca to shearling to sisal, silk, jute and wool, every piece begs to be touched. Artisans from around the world create her designs utilizing ancient crafting techniques. rosemaryhallgarten.com.
